What Is It?

A discussion group is a group of individuals, typically who share a similar interest, who gather either formally or informally to discuss ideas, solve problems, or make comments.

What Is Its Function?

- Allows people with common interests to easily share information and participate in discussions by using a dedicated email address.
- Business Group:
Anyone in the organization can send an email to a single address that then sends the message to every member of the team.

Benefits

- Improves Communication
- Allows timely communication
- Individuals scattered across the world working towards a common goal can have a discussion on the topic of their interest.

How to Form an E-Mail Discussion Group???

Step 1

The screenshot shows the Google Groups homepage. At the top left is the "Google groups" logo. To its right is a search bar with the placeholder text "Search for groups or messages". Further right are icons for a grid menu, a notification bell, and a user profile picture. Below the search bar, the word "Groups" is written in red. A red button labeled "CREATE GROUP" is circled in green. To the right of this button are two more buttons: one with a person icon and a dropdown arrow, and another with a gear icon and a dropdown arrow. On the left side, there is a sidebar with the following sections: "My groups" (with sub-links for Home, My discussions, and Starred), "Favorites" (with a yellow callout box that says "Click on a group's star icon to add it to your favorites"), and "Recent searches". At the bottom of the sidebar are links for "Privacy" and "Terms of Service". The main content area features two buttons: "My groups" (with a person icon) and "Browse all" (with a speech bubble icon). Below these buttons are several promotional paragraphs:

Group description

Group's primary language English (United States) ▾

This is the language emails from the Google groups service will be sent in. For example: digest emails, email footers, etc.

Group type Group types are pre-configured settings for your Google group and make configuring your group a little easier. You can always change the specific settings and enable additional features to match your needs. Select a type to get more information.

Select a group type Email list ▾

An email list allows users to post from the web or through email. This is a mailing list group.

Name your group

Fill in the "Group name" and "Group email address" fields. Keep the name and address as short as possible. For example, "staff" is much easier--and faster--to type than "all-employees."

You can also review the sharing settings further down this page. You may want to adjust these settings to restrict who may view or post messages, and/or join the group.

When ready, select the "Create" button near the top of the page.

Demo group created

Congratulations! Your Google Group has been created.

Get started with your new group:

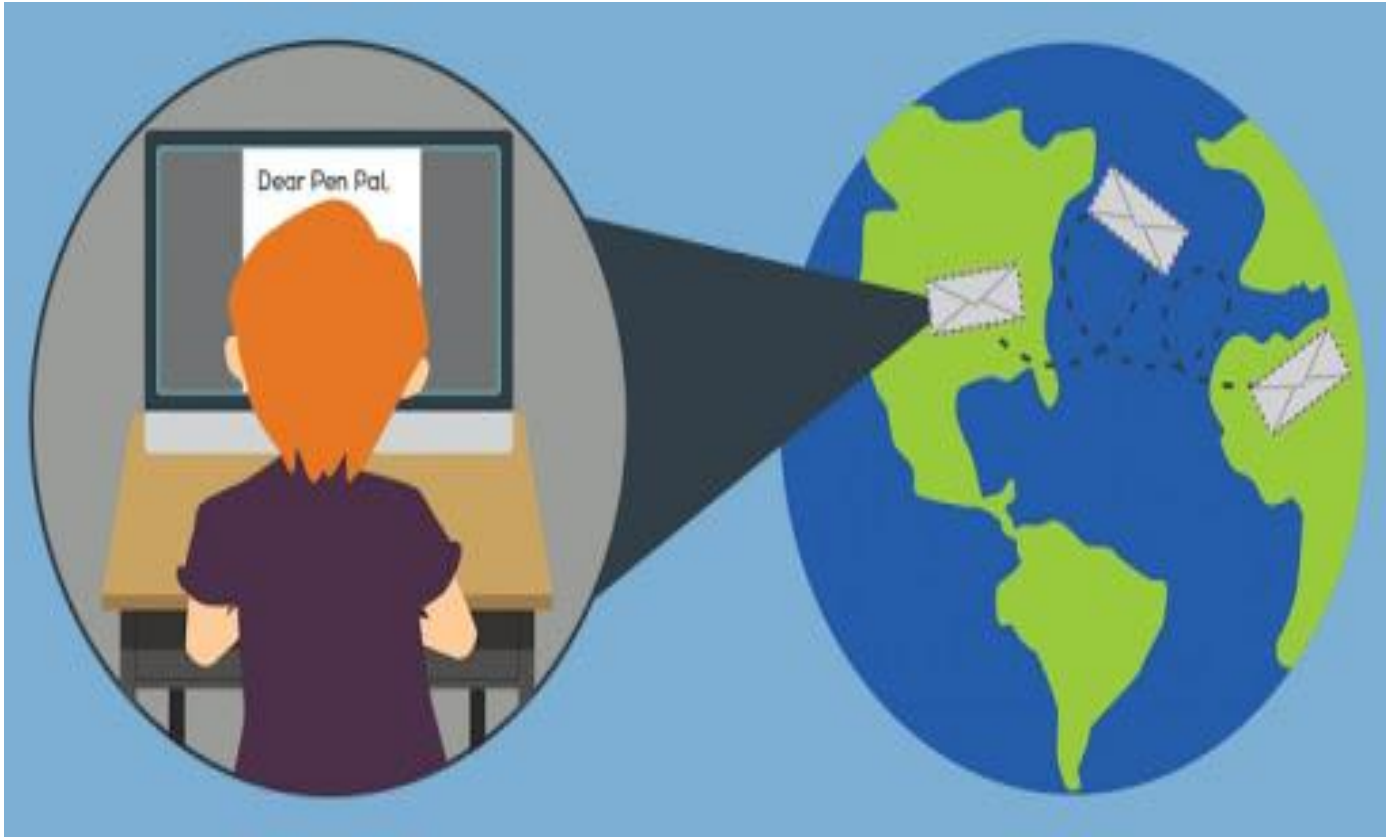

- Invite people to join the group
- Customize your group's settings
- Add a topic and start posting

Okay

- Invite members / Direct add members
- Next, you'll see a message that indicates that "Your Google Group has been created."
- Select the "Invite people to join the group" link. This will take you to a page where you may--not surprisingly--invite people to join.

What Is A Blog ?

A blog (a derivative of “web” and “log”) is essentially an online diary, where anyone with a basic knowledge of computers can post anything – random thoughts, photos, homework, and poetry, just to name a few – for the rest of the world to see.

BLOG

Blogs are usually maintained by an individual with regular entries of commentary, descriptions of events, or other material such as graphics or video. ... Microblogging is another type of blogging, featuring very short posts.

Blog Meaning

A blog is a type of website or part of a website. Blogs are usually maintained by an individual with regular entries of commentary, descriptions of events, or other material such as graphics or video. Entries are commonly displayed in reverse-chronological order. Blog can also be used as a verb, meaning to maintain or add content to a blog.

Most blogs are interactive, allowing visitors to leave comments and even message each other via widgets on the blogs and it is this interactivity that distinguishes them from other static websites

Many blogs provide commentary or news on a particular subject; others function as more personal online diaries. A typical blog combines text, images, and links to other blogs, Web pages, and other media related to its topic. The ability of readers to leave comments in an interactive format is an important part of many blogs. Most blogs are primarily textual, although some focus on art (Art blog), photographs (photoblog), videos (video blogging), music (MP3 blog), and audio (podcasting). Microblogging is another type of blogging, featuring very short posts.

Few famous blog sites:

- 2). <http://blog.com>
- 3). bigb.bigadda.com & many more...

The Blog Content

- “A main content area with articles listed chronologically, newest on top. Often, the articles are organized into categories.
- An archive of older articles.
- A way for people to leave comments about the articles.
- A list of links to other related sites, sometimes called a "blogroll".
- One or more "feeds" like RSS, Atom or RDF files.”
